1. Many other State Water Project Contractors are not taking explicit action to their boards, but would anticipate cost responsibility under their existing SWP contract with the state, along with existing opportunities under the contract to manage their supply and costs through water transfers, banking, and exchanges.

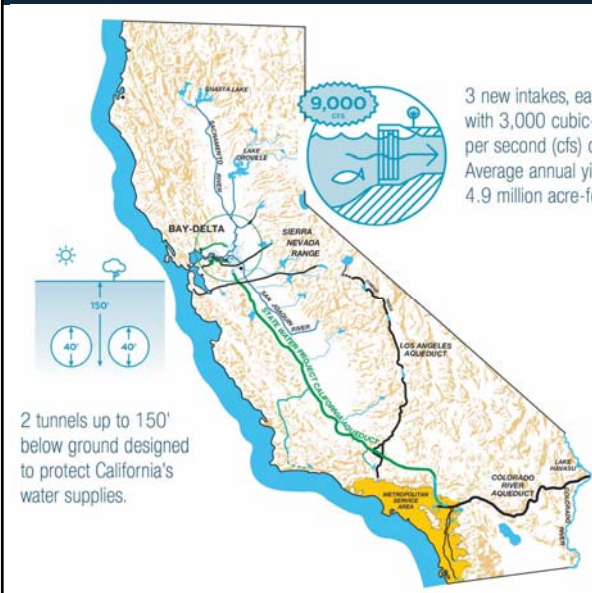

Cost Allocation

If other State Water Project or Central Valley Project contractors decide not to pay their fair shares, future decisions will have to be made about who might be willing to purchase those shares in exchange for additional water. But the decision now is only about Metropolitan paying its portion.
